A romance which began in the Fairmont High school culminated in the marriage four months ago at Greensburg, Pa., of Harold Roush, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Roush, of Maple avenue, this city, and Miss Eva M. Fling, of Morgantown, formerly of this city. The marriage was kept a profound secret until very recently when it was announced. At the time the friendship began Miss Fling was teacher of botany at the High school and Mr. Roush was a pupil there. When Miss Fling left here to take a position in the Morgantown schools, Mr. Roush entered the West Virginia university. His health becoming poor he returned to the home of his parents here and engaged with his father in the restaurant business on Jefferson street.

Although the marriage was kept a secret, the parents of the bride were apprised of it by a friend who sent them a paper from Greensburg announcing the marriage. They said nothing about it until the subject was broached when they explained that they had known it for some time.
